3 Architexts:

Finnegans Wake/Fra Angelico's San Marco/Laurentian Library:

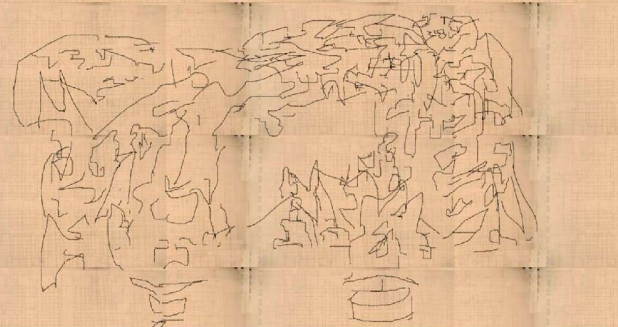

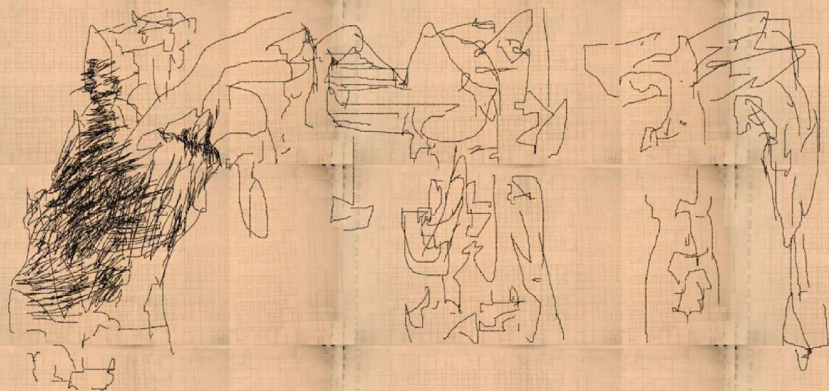

are the foci for organizing digital drawings which take the them of an exploded sense of history formed in the subconscious per the first text in relation to a cloistered mood by which the Angelico space created imagery reflecting on the daily life cycle of monks under vows of silence, and finally the inversions and sense of the underground artist of the Laurentian Library (Michelangelo literally living underground- beneath the library for 3 years to escape the pope...

The works give a text page I "translate" as the book requires! in the Finnegans Wake antechamber as it were, and then I alternate digital environments in which the sense of projection of an abject is internalized to the virtual environment, firstly in the enclosed and cloistered completeness of the SanMarco paradigm, and then again in the inverted and exploded moods of the Laurentian genesis of Mannerist temperament.

The "San Marco Chapters" are those with an enclosing red line (San Marco itself has a program of a red line, a drawn red window symbol and likewise door- these being sigla forms introducing the art as doors and windows on the daily routines and eclesiatic cycles)

The drawings which break the border represent towards taking a page from the Laurentian Library.

Following this are details as a matrix of the drawings by which so to speak the book draws from out of itself the architecture of its chapters...
